

Anything, anywhere, anytime.
That's how we approach your construction project.

Oversized, unusual, remote— we'll get it there.

At American Fast Freight, we have a saying that sums up our service promise: no matter where it is...or what it is...or where it is going, we'll get it here from there or there from here.

That's especially true when it comes to shipping to construction sites. We've shipped just about every kind of equipment, from cranes to earthmovers. Plus construction materials and furnishings.

Getting heavy equipment like this earthmover to a construction site anywhere in Alaska is all just part of a day's work for us.

And we've shipped them to sites as remote as Barrow. Our effectiveness at meeting the unique challenges of construction projects is a direct result of the experience we've gained while providing reliable, quality transportation and distribution services in Alaska over the last 20 years. We know how to make things happen—right.

What you need, when you need it—When you're in the middle of a construction project, waiting for equipment or materials is a very costly way to spend your time. That's why we specialize in the logistics of getting your cargo to you when you need it. And not a moment later.

Our precision-timed deliveries and record of on-time performance not only keep your project on schedule, but can also help keep it on budget by cutting warehousing costs and reducing theft. After all, you don't have to pay to warehouse or protect what you don't have on site.

A comprehensive approach—We'll work closely with you throughout the project to help keep it running smoothly. We'll analyze the bid specifications to determine the equipment needs and transit times necessary to ensure a timely staging and delivery of materials and equipment to your site.

Using your product purchase orders, we can even contact your suppliers and work directly with them to spot the right equipment at their dock so your products are shipped intact and on time. We can also coordinate deliveries directly with subcontractors. We'll notify you about each contact and keep you apprised of any problems your suppliers are having completing your orders. And you'll receive complete documentation about everything related to your project.

We can also provide secure, temporary storage of materials during the construction or installation phase, either in Alaska or in the lower 48.

Everything it takes to do the job right—At American Fast Freight, we have the right people, the right locations, and the right equipment to handle all of your transportation needs to and from Alaska.
